Editor's Comments:

Thank you for submitting your paper for consideration for publication in ACGBE section of Cogent Business and Management. I sent your paper to three reviewers' and they have suggested that your manuscript requires further revisions. I have read the paper myself, and I agree that you should be given the opportunity to revise and resubmit your paper for consideration. I will not repeat the reviewers concerns and suggestions here, but please you should endeavour to address them. In addition, please address the following issues that I would like you to effect before resubmitting:

1. Your current structure is messy and so please re-structure paper as follows: 1. Introduction, 2. Background, 3. Theoretical literature review, 4. Empirical literature review and hypotheses development, 5. Research design, 6. Empirical results and discussion, and 7. Summary and conclusion. Please you must re-structure your paper according this comment 1, which will involve substantial revisions to your work. To reduce wasting the time of reviewers, yours and mine, if this suggestion is not followed, then, the paper may be rejected without any further review, and so please kindly take this comment seriously.
2. Introduction: Please clarify your research questions, objectives, background motivation, theoretical and empirical motivation and the lines of contributions to the literature. You can do this by sharply articulating your research questions/objectives, identify the potential theoretical, background and theoretical motivation or gaps, and explain how your study contributes to the literature. You can do this by highlighting the weaknesses of prior studies as well. Currently, your introduction is very dry. Additionally, you need state clearly the contributions of the paper. For example, "Consequently, the current paper seeks to make the following contributions to the existing literature. First,...., Second,....., Third, ..., Fourth,... and so on". The introduction should be about 5 pages long.
3. Background – you need to explain why this is the appropriate context to conduct this study by exploiting regulatory, reform and policy issues and developments within the research context or setting. This should be about two to three pages long.
4. Theoretical framework - Please an overarching theoretical framework that will explain the underlying predictions and hypotheses of interest. In doing so, please explicitly outline how they help link the dependent and independent variables together by drawing on both seminal (old) and recently (newly) published studies. This should be about two to three pages long.
5. Literature review and hypotheses Development – please enhance your hypotheses by: (i) drawing on the theory; (ii) empirical literature; (iii) research setting/contextual insights; and (iv) then setting up your hypotheses. You will do this for each hypothesis. Currently, you have not developed your hypotheses in this way. You will need to so by drawing on both seminal (old) and recently (newly) published studies.
6. Research design – Please identify, classify and explain your variables – dependent, independent and control variables, as well as any others, such as moderating or mediating variables. Please also explain your sample selection clearly (insert a table tabulating the steps - how many was missing, many had data, how many selected and why) and also clarify in a normative way how the variables are operationalised. Similarly, explain your sample in a tabular form, outlining step by step the total population to the selection of the final sample. Label all your equations, figures and tables in a consecutive manner. Make the tables self-contained by clearly identifying dependent, independent and control variables in the tables.

7. Empirical findings – please link your findings more strongly to the: (i) theory, (ii) empirics, (iii) context; and (iv) highlight their economic, academic/research and policy implications. Closely link up and cite the papers that you have discussed in the background, theory and empirical literature review & and hypotheses development section to the findings you are presenting here.

8. Conclusion – Please outline a summary of findings, contributions, implications, limitations and avenues for future research. Especially, expand the discussions relating to implications, limitations and avenues for future research.

9. Robustness or additional analyses – please demonstrate how your findings are to alternative measures (e.g., different ways of measuring the key dependent and independent variables), estimations (e.g., lagged structure, and instrumental variables estimation, amongst others) and general endogeneities. This is completely missing.

10. Typos – please there are considerable number of typos, spelling errors and grammatical mistakes throughout the paper that a careful reading will help you to eliminate them. Seek professional proof-reader's help if deemed appropriate. Improve presentation by clearly labelling equations, tables, sections and subsections.

11. In order to build on this line of research in the ACGBE of Cogent Business and Management, please identify at least 3 appropriate and relevant papers from ACGBE and cite to support your arguments. Also, these papers are directly relevant in terms of the recommended structure and content, consider citing and drawing insights to support your analysis:

12. Please follow the ACGBE section of the Cogent Business and Management author guidelines. For example, re-write your abstract to follow ACGBE section of Cogent Business and Management guidelines. In the same, follow the beer guidelines regarding referencing, tables, equations, heading and subheadings and so on in type-setting your work.

13. Please kindly take these 12 comments seriously and endeavour to fully address them in addition to the reviewers' comments. Please prepare a point-by-point detailed response to the reviewers' comments as well as mine and highlight all changes in the colour yellow in the main manuscript.

I hope you will positively embrace these constructive suggestions as a way of taking this research forward, and I look forward to receiving a revised version of your paper.

Best regards
Collins Ntim, PhD, ACGBE Senior Editor

How Does Sustainability Report Disclosure and Political Connection Performance Affect Firm Value? An Empirical Study in Singapore

Comments to the Author

I agree with the authors' implicit assertions that more still needs to be done around ESG-related disclosures and also within the south-east Asia setting.

This said, I hold a number of concerns that I believe preclude publication of this study in its current form. These concerns, both conceptual and empirical in nature, are described below.

From an empirical perspective, I hold the following concerns:

1. I am surprised that the valuation model does not include a CSR performance measure. Following on from Al-Tuwaijri et al. (AOS, 2004), the standard for any CSR-related disclosure model is to also include a performance measure (for examples, please see Plumlee et al., 2015 which the authors reference and also, Clarkson et al., 2013)
2. I find it interesting to include Gov as a part of the analysis. The norm is to consider only the E and S components, under the argument that governance is internal and impacts decisions around the other two dimensions.
3. The authors suggest that they delete 7 firms because of 'normality requirements'. Here, I'd like to see much more around outliers and their treatment. For example, the mean value of Q for the remaining 87 firms is 14.389 which seems exceedingly high. I would also like to see median values in Table 3
4. I would like to see a correlation matrix - I would expect the pair-wise correlations among various disclosure measures to be quite high
5. I am concerned about the ESG disclosure measure and would like to see considerably more detail, especially given its central importance.

From a conceptual perspective, given that the empirical focus is largely on disclosure measures,

I believe that study is deficient by not considering disclosure theories that commonly unpin work into CSR-related disclosures. For example, the literature commonly considers the contrasts between the predictions of legitimacy theory and signalling (voluntary disclosure) theory. To my understanding, stakeholder theory is much more around what firms are doing as opposed to what they are saying (but again, unfortunately, there is really no consideration given to ESG performance within the study). In my view, the authors need to do much more to appropriately frame their arguments and hypotheses. There is a broad literature that is not given consideration in the study.

In sum, while the authors focus on a potentially interesting research arena, the current study appears largely undeveloped relative to the current state of the literature. I am hopeful that my comments will be of some benefit to the authors as they attempt to progress their study.

Title: How Does Sustainability Report Disclosure and Political Connection Performance Affecting Firm Value? An Empirical Study in Singapore

The title of this study is interesting; however, I have several comments outlined below:

The abstract is poorly written, and its structure is inadequate. Although the authors included "Global Reporting Initiative (GRI)" in their keywords, it is not mentioned in the abstract. The sample size is also omitted. Furthermore, there are numerous grammatical errors in the abstract.

The introduction is not well-crafted, lacking fluency and coherence. This section references very few sources, and the problem statement is unclear. Why is there a need to research sustainability disclosure and Political Connection Performance's impact on firm value in Singapore? The authors used sustainability disclosure in the title, but then they discuss ESG in the manuscript, leading to inconsistency. The introduction is also excessively lengthy.

I am concerned about the quantity and quality of citations in the literature review (theoretical background) and hypothesis development sections. There is a lack of critical discussion for the hypotheses. Why did the authors choose to focus on political connection in this study? Why not concentrate solely on ESG or sustainability disclosure?

The study's contribution is not adequately robust. It fails to establish unique insights or additions to the existing literature. The study could have explored various aspects such as investor interest and employee engagement. A thorough reconsideration is necessary to address these limitations and enhance the overall impact of the study.

Why did the authors only concentrate on manufacturing companies? Why not include non-financial companies? The authors need a strong justification. ESG scores are available data in Refinitive Eikon. Using a formula for that may not be necessary. Why are there no control variables in this study? Control variables have a strong effect on the relationship between independent variables and dependent variables. The final firm-year sample represents around 10% of the whole population, which should be reconsidered.

The practical implications need to be rewritten for clarity and precision.

As a whole, I would recommend that the authors reconsider their approach and provide more substantial data and analysis related to the topic of gender equality certification and its influence on ESG. This would help strengthen the paper's contribution and align it more closely with the stated objectives in the title.

TITLE: THE EFFECT OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT WEALTH ON INTERNET FINANCIAL REPORTING (IFR) COMPLIANCE WITH LOCAL GEOGRAPHIC AS A MODERATION VARIABLE: A NEW INSTITUTIONAL THEORY APPROACH

ABSTRACT: The purpose of this study is to test whether local government wealth has a significant effect on Internet Financial Reporting (IFR) disclosure. In addition, this study will also test whether the geographical location of local government is able to moderate the relationship between local government wealth and disclosure of Internet Financial Reporting (IFR). The population in this study includes all local governments in Indonesia. The sample for this research is the regional government which was selected by using a census sampling method. Based on the regression test results, it was concluded that local government wealth did not significantly affect Internet Financial Reporting (IFR) disclosure. However, this research is able to prove that the geographical location of local government is able to moderate the relationship between local government wealth and Internet Financial Reporting (IFR) disclosure
